

In summary, I believe that the Lord accomplished many things both for individuals and corporately in Arnhem Land. I cannot imagine how it would have come together and flowed without MAF's commitment and support. It has been a joy to work alongside your people. – David Stanfield, The Banner Man, <http://www.worshipbanners.com.au>

E.T.'s first steps; E.T. is an Antilopine Wallaroo

E.T. is so called, because when Clare first got him he was skin and bones in a black bin liner, soaking wet with urine and flat – no life.

Clare has been taking care of an Agile Wallaby these last few months which we rescued from a Homeland after its mother had been killed for food.

Since word spread that Clare loved and cared for these 'wobblys – as her kids at school call them', we now have three: two Agile wobblys and an Antilopine Wallaroo, running around the house. Once reared, Clare will release them to a sanctuary near Darwin-if she can part with them?

Yirrkala, the community we live in, has seen a fantastic year. We have witnessed several baptisms, including this yappa (sister) and several young men; which is the result of several MAF men's discipling efforts and a men's camp amongst other efforts.

This year has been about helping and enabling other evangelists reach out to the Yolju people of East Arnhem Land, as well as our own programs. David Stanfield, The Banner Man, spent several weeks travelling between homelands on MAF aircraft, where MAF staff opened up their homes to him and his team. Here is a picture of the Yolju in Millingimbi.
